Inflationists and Their Platform.

It is a curious fact that the inflation plank in the Ohio Democratic platform of ... some doubtful resolutions in favor of inflationist repudiation has stirred up a great confusion among the Democrats of their own country. From New Orleans to New Hampshire the Democratic papers are full of it. Some of the denounce, some favor the resolutions, but nearly all treat them as of the utmost importance. If the election in Ohio were for President of the United States, the discussion of the ground assumed by the Democrats there could hardly be more earnest than it now is, or extend more completely throughout the country.

The explanation of this apparent anomaly in politics is, that the election in Ohio will have a very decided influence on the Presidential contest. The inflationists in that State have undertaken a most ... reconnoissance in force, to test their own strength and that of the money interest, if they should gain the ... they gain ... position from which they can control the Presidential fields. It is, of course, ... in the State ... the ... is ... that of small consequence to the Inflationists whether the Mr. Allen is re-elected or not. He might be in the Governor's chair a dozen years without having an opportunity to ... advance their projects ... But to each ... a platform announcing inflation in its broadest and most wicked shape would be a demonstration of great power. It was a triumph for them to compel him to go on such a platform. So far as he ... any convictions, they are opposed to inflation. So far as he knows anything, he knows—because he was taught it by a Boston-Hill paper—money is an almost ... evil. Not ... it ... a sense that the inflationists are irresistible and ... with no regret ... his old notions to abandon professions of principle made years ago, and consistently maintained up to the present moment. And this was what the inflationists wished. They wished to demonstrate their power and to prepare the way for compelling the hard-money Democrats in National Convention to accept their ideas, and to ... their candidates, in a manner ... docile as ... Allen.

It is acknowledged that the purpose of the inflationists ... makes their success ... so far as Ohio is ... exciting the Democrats, and the excitement shows that the party is hopelessly divided on the financial question. Of the call of division there is no doubt what each faction ... the ... relative strength. The Inflationists are by no means willing to admit that the hard-money men are in the majority. On that point they make ... their ... hopes ... fight. If they can carry the day in Ohio they will go into the National Convention with immense advantage. If they lose it, they will still be ... probably ... liked ... Thurman and the ... hard-money men. Of Thurman, they will show that ... the ... his party, ... own State and ... they will ... a ... to him ... Ohio as they ... State Convention. A Presidential candidate not supported by his own State in convention would stand a poor chance. Mr. Pendleton and Mr. Ewing ... well be satisfied with such ... they should gain ...

The Democrats of other States are greatly dismayed by the violence of the outbreak which the Ohio platform has produced. The leading Democratic paper of Missouri says that it is a "firebrand," ... and that it "is setting the campaign ablaze." The leading Democratic paper in Louisiana says that in that State it ... "has outnumbered the opportunities of a party ... ". A third ... with a mournful ... optimism ... "The trouble ... is not so much that it divides the party, as that the party is not yet in a position to ... with the effects of a division." But the Inflationists do not expect that the division will go beyond the National Convention, and there they expect to win. They ... reckon ... that some ... hard money ... platform and the ... will follow after ... as Mr. Thurman ... following his Uncle William in Ohio. And as ... now stands, the hopes of the inflationists are not unreasonable.—N. Y. Times.

The English Soldier.

In every company there are certain to be some notable characters. "The dandy," ... "the wag," and "the lawyer" are generally the chief. The "dandy" is ... who can build a rabbit-hutch ... a ... chimney, ... or ... a ... out of ... no ... avoidable ... of ... of ... will not be ... a stout ... thing; ... a ... story ... possessed of ... and ... a ... of good ... or ... The "lawyer" is the man who always has a complaint to make to his officers, who always disputes his accounts, who always thinks he is being "put upon." He is generally better educated than his fellows, and has probably been a clerk. In a small way he possesses that little knowledge which is a dangerous thing, and generally ends badly. The "lawyer" ... many friends, ... the ... to the ... the ... comes out strong in the ... and ... conversations of ... in the barrack-room, in the canteen; and the lawyer has a chance of distinguishing himself at the half-yearly inspections, when the inspecting General asks the whole regiment whether any man has a complaint to make. Now is the lawyer's time. He steps forward, the ... of ... and ... into a ... grievance ... which ... that the ... of ... for the ... very few ... who would ... to ... grievance ... The inspecting General, however, will always listen to the lawyer's story, and before he leaves the barracks will investigate it from beginning to end, as if the fate of a ... depended on ... —Belgravia.
